

In case of emergency...

Fill out this basic information and keep it near the phone. Having it in writing can help prevent confusion during an emergency.

National Guard or Reserve member's full name:

Rank and pay grade:

Social Security number:

Unit/company:

Chaplain:

Persons to contact in case of emergency:

Immediate family members:

Closest neighbors:

Nearest military installation:

Family center:

Red Cross:

If the emergency is at home,

you will need to have the following information:

The full name of the person who is injured or has died:

Relationship to National Guard or Reserve member:

Name of hospital or funeral home:

Name of health-care provider:

Name of family member who can provide additional information:

Contact the Red Cross

—they'll need to verify the emergency and will officially notify the member's unit. The Red Cross will need the following information:

National Guard or Reserve member's name:

Rank:

Social Security number:

Unit name:

Unit commander's name:

Local unit number:

Alternate contact:
